

CGR Insight of the month

The problem is not one of failure or success of Lean Six Sigma it is not a problem of application of the right tools. It is a problem of focus; You must focus your attention on the areas, or constraints, that are causing the real problem. The focus of a deployment should be on achieving global, rather than local, optimization, CGR MENA can help your organization achieve business objectives (i.e. Cash profits) To understand whether a particular improvement brings global optimization we utilize a hybrid of the latest scientific tools.
